Add value to your business and to your bottom line

More and more corporate travellers choose rail as an alternative mode of transport. Developing your rail business is a very effective way to add value to your business and increase your revenues. Especially your corporate customers will thank you for helping them to control their travel cost by mixing and matching air and rail. Take the opportunity and capitalise on the surge of high-speed train operations - especially in Europe and Asia

Reduce your corporate customers' travel expenses

Even high-speed rail services are often cheaper than air. Advise your corporate clients on how to lower their travel costs by comparing different modes of travel with the help of the mixed air-rail display, and explain how and why they should include a certain amount of rail travel in their corporate travel policies.
