A variety of options in one comprehensive training solution

Do you prefer face-to-face interaction in a traditional instructor-led environment, and still want enjoy the flexibility and convenience of 24/7 access to Web-based training? With Amadeus Blended Training, you can have it all—every tool you need to manage your company's training program.

Amadeus combines the best of both worlds by blending traditional learning with Web-based training to help you achieve the best overall results. Everything from specialized training programs delivered at your office location to online, self-study training customized for your employees, Amadeus helps you maximize knowledge retention to increase operational efficiency and revenue.

Amadeus designs a program that's right for your business

Does your training program require a special focus on non-air products to seize new areas of opportunity? With Amadeus as your partner, we can help you adapt, modify or customize courses to meet your specific business requirements. Let us work with you in developing a program ideal for your organization. Courses are available in both English and Spanish.

Program options may include:

Self Study Training - Students learn fundamental concepts and perform practice exercises to reinforce what they learn. Managers can set their own deadlines for course completion while students work independently to meet their course objectives.

Live Online Training - These online events are instructor-led and give students the opportunity to engage in interactive discussions that build on the basic concepts acquired through self study. Amadeus instructors also introduce more advanced functionality and cover new topics.

Onsite Training - Following the completion of self-study training, instructor-led training is delivered at your location on dates and times of your choosing, saving you time and money on travel expenses. Amadeus designs this component around your requirements while focusing primarily on hands-on application.

Meet your employee training objectives with enhanced progress tracking and monitoring

Effective training programs require close monitoring to ensure the successful completion of courses. As part of you Blended Training program, Amadeus provides you with access to an online report that gives owners, managers and training coordinators the ability to track student progress online, anytime. To assist you in following up with your employees, Amadeus provides you with a weekly status report via e-mail.
